CHINESE REVOLT ENDANGERING AMERICANS MISSIONARIES ORDERED TO THE CITIES

Scene In Canton, China, Center of Revolt Now Threatening Empire

LINK PREPARING CAMPAIGN PLAN AGAIN

Link McCandless is preparing to renew his fight on the Territory's immigration policy, and this will again be the chief political issue in his perennial struggle to get elected Delegate to Congress, according to present indications.

McCandless is seeking to use the laboring organizations being built up among the Hawaiians as his tools in the fight against the immigration of aliens. Already he is credited with having had an important hand in the move made by the Hilo Labor Union in opposing the importation of plantation laborers.

David Ewaliko, the Hilo Democrat who is the moving spirit in the labor union on the Big Island, is one of McCandless' henchmen, and Ewaliko is (Continued on Page 3)

DEATH CALLS J. J. DOWLING

James J. Dowling, manager of the Hawaii Preserving company and one of the best-known men in the pineapple cannery business in the islands, died this morning at 6:30 o'clock at the Queen's Hospital, where he has been for some time, following an operation. Stomach trouble was the primary cause of his illness, and an operation failed to arrest the danger that has been threatening him for some weeks. The operation was performed August 15, and he did not rally from the shock.

Mrs. Dowling returned two weeks ago from the Coast on account of his illness and since then has been almost constantly at his side. They had no children. Previous to the operation, they had lived at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel.

Mr. Dowling was born in San Francisco October 31, 1864, and had been a resident of the islands for some time. He was regarded as a very efficient business man and had made a great success of his work with the Hawaii Preserving Company which was the Consolidated Pineapple. He was formerly superintendent of the Koolau Railway Company until a few months ago. The company's new cannery at Iwilei had just been completed and started operations when he was taken ill and forced to leave his office in the height of the season. Personally Mr. Dowling was very popular and numbered his friends by the scores.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Masonic Temple.

Bomb Outrage Is Cause Of Revolt

PEKING, China, Sept. 7.—With the flames of revolt breaking out in China and Canton already in chaos, alarming reports have come in as to the safety of foreigners. The province of Szechuen is reported in revolt against the Manchu administration, and orders have been sent out from Peking to missionaries telling them to hurry to the cities at once for protection there by the various legations.

ANTI-MANCHU ATTEMPT AT ASSASSINATION

The beginning of the present revolt in Canton had its origin in a murderous attack made a few days ago on Admiral Li Chun, a government leader, as he was passing with his suite along the busiest thoroughfare inside the south gate of the city.

He had reached a point named the "Double Gate Bottom," when bombs were thrown at him by the revolutionists. The explosion wounded his left hand and the right side of his body. Over ten of his bodyguard were injured, the most unfortunate accident being the death of five street hawkers on the roadside, on whom the main force of the explosion seems to have been spent. The admiral was badly but not fatally hurt.

The man who threw the bombs was apprehended upon the spot. According to his depositions, his family name is Chen. He is a native of Ching-chow, and over forty years of age. He said that he had returned home from Peking for the sole purpose of assassinating Admiral Li Chun, to revenge the blood of the reformers, which the admiral had spilt. On three occasions he had very nearly executed his plan of murder, but had somehow been frustrated. This was his fourth attempt.

The city gates were reopened near evening by order of the viceroy, in order to allay the fears of the people.

ROAD TAX IN COUNTRY DISTRICTS CAN NOT BE SPENT ON CITY STREETS

Certain Honolulu streets may be in sore need of attention and repair but money to cover the cost of this work cannot be taken from funds collected as road tax in country districts, according to the interpretation of the city and county act by members of the board of supervisors.

"It's all very well to talk about taking away from this and that outside district, and place this sum at the disposal of the Honolulu road department for making repairs on Nuuanu and other more favored sections of the city, but the country districts cannot be neglected altogether," insisted one member of the board this morning.

Each month there is allotted but $3,025 for outside districts including Koolauloa $1,250, Ewa $700, Koolau-poko $375, Waialua $1,000, Waianae $400 and Waimanalo about $75.

Waimea bill work cannot be allowed to drop according to the declarations coming from the county engineering department and it will require several thousand dollars to complete this improvements. This means that Waialua appropriation cannot be touched or diverted to other lines.

About the only hope for the securing of funds now set aside for outside districts would be in an attempt to divert the monthly appropriations for Waianae, Ewa and Koolauloa, which total $2,350.

It is claimed that in as much as Ewa district accrues something like $1,600 road tax, that Ewa might not particularly suffer should the county decide to use their road appropriation for improvement work in Honolulu city.

The Loan Fund Commission has decided upon some six miles of new road building for Koolauloa district and for this reason the $1,250 set apart each month for the upkeep of roads in that district is believed can be used in the city without the transfer working any particular hardship to the windward Oahu district.

Waialua district is also in line for new road construction under the provisions of the Belt Road Commission and this district may then be touched for an even thousand dollars a month, the same being put to use in Honolulu.

McCandless May Have No Rights

Government officials who have been investigating the right-of-way asked by the Oahu plantation across government land in connection with its big scheme for an irrigation tunnel said today that the claim of L. L. McCandless to the water rights is what is holding up a settlement of the question speedily.

McCandless has an option which expires next month, he claims and according to information gained by government officials, has been urging action by the plantation people while the plantation people are anxious for the Territory to act also.

The government now wants to know just exactly what position Link McCandless holds and what his claims as to water rights represent.

On the surface the request of the plantation for a simple right of way through government land does not seem to amount to anything out of the ordinary but there are matters lying behind it all that complicate it to such a degree that there are no immediate chances of its being settled, said officials today well acquainted with the facts.

The plantation has an option on all Link McCandless' water rights in this and have agreed to pay him, so it is reported in the neighborhood of $100,000. There are two plans, one of which is for the purchase of the rights on a cash basis and the other is for the formation of a separate company to handle the tunnel scheme, with the Oahu plantation pledging itself to buy all the water and giving McCandless stock equal to the figure named.

It is this question of option that is likely to tie up the whole scheme as far as the plantation is concerned. It is operative up to October 5. The attorneys are therefore pressing the Territory for the right of way. Attorney Kinney was asked the question as to what rights McCandless (Continued on Page 2)

BIG EXTRAS FOR WANT WAIALUA AND EWA

Directors of Ewa Plantation Company and Waialua Agricultural Company held meetings this morning at the offices of Castle and Cooke and the result was announcement of a big melon-cutting in the form of extra dividends.

Ewa directors announce two extras this year in addition to the 2 per cent. already declared. The extras will be 2 per cent. each, and will be handed out on September 30 and November 30, making a total of 18 per cent. for the year, or $900,000, of which $300,000 is in extras.

Waialua directors decided to cut up extras of 2 1/2 per cent. on October 15 and December 15, raising the total for the year to 12 per cent., or $540,000. Waialua went on a dividend basis of seventy-five cents per month on July 15 of this year, paying fifty cents before that time.

Previous to the meeting there had been some general expectation that Waialua might go upon a dollar-a-month regular basis, but this action was not taken. It is understood that there was a feeling of conservatism in raising the regular schedule and that it was thought best not to take action that might afterward have to be reconsidered and the dividend possibly cut down.

All doubt as to Sullivan & Buckley's attitude towards the opening up of the Bishop street extension was settled at the meeting of the commission this morning, when the firm, through the Waterhouse Trust Company, stated its price as $100,000. This is $20,000 higher than the price submitted to James F. Morgan when the matter was under consideration once before. It was said by one of the commissioners.

The St. Louis Alumni Association, through its president, Carlos Long, also submitted an estimate of the damage it would sustain. It has 3047 square feet and this is priced at $2.50 per foot, making a total of $7617.50. This will include all damage to buildings, the president stated this morning.

The committee will now settle down to work out a tentative scheme of some sort, as it has enough assessments submitted to work upon. Owing to a mistake in the Department of Public Works, some plans which were to have been ready for this morning are delayed, the draftsman thinking Superintendent Marston Campbell had all the necessary data, whereas he had only part of it.

The price of coal has advanced to $6.50 a ton at Bridgeport.

TAFT'S TRIP IS IMPORTANT TO NATION

BY C. S. ALBERT.
(Special Bulletin Correspondence.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—A hot fire has been started under the political pot coincident with the adjournment of Congress. All parties and factions promptly began taking steps to turn the events of the extraordinary session to their advantage. The Presidential campaign of next year was opened. The Progressive Republicans were the most active and aggressive. On the same afternoon that Congress dissolved Senator Clapp, a leader of that faction, started on a whirlwind tour of the Far West. He will seek to advance the cause of the National Republican Progressive League, of which Senator Bourne is president. Mr. Clapp will begin his stumping in Arizona, urging the people of that Territory to stand firmly by the initiative, referendum and recall features of their constitution. He (Continued on Page 3)
